

Revisions to Estimates
Joanne Hsu, PhD, Director

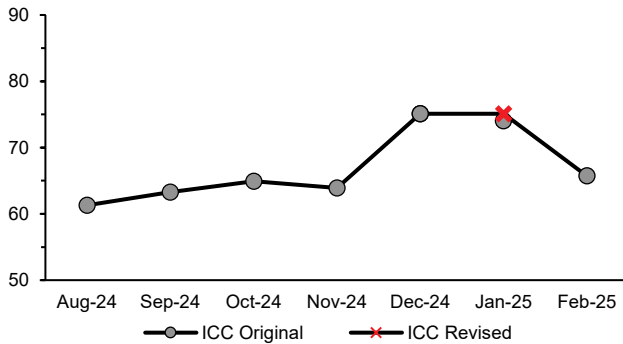

February 21, 2025

There was a minor technical error in the generation of the weights used to compute aggregate estimates for January 2025. We have since corrected the weights for that month. Overall, the differences between the estimates originally released and the revised estimates are almost negligible, as seen in the comparisons below. All charts and tables published on our main site (www.sca.isr.umich.edu) have been updated to reflect the revisions. We are notifying users of the revisions in keeping with our commitment to the transparency, accuracy, and integrity of the data we provide to the public.
